Charity,

I am in receipt of Randall J Rowe II's June 5, 2012 sent on your behalf with a copy of 2 checks. The first check made payable to Weisberg and Meyers, LLC Teust [sic] Account in the amount of [REDACTED]. The second check is payable to the Internal Revenue Service in the amount of [REDACTED]. These checks violate the terms of the settlement and the intent of the parties.

As you recall, prior to your presenting the revised release, you, Marshall Meyers and I had phone conferences wherein it was made crystal clear that our client declined to execute a W9, referencing your client's conduct in another case wherein it sought a double tax benefit. We indicated that we would gladly provide one on behalf of our respective offices. We had discussed issues with the release language as a direct result of these concerns well before a settlement was reached.

On April 10, 2012, you provided the revised Settlement Agreement and Release which provided in part:

[REDACTED]

On April 11, 2012, you emailed my office final approval to send the Settlement Agreement and Release to the Plaintiff. Upon your consent, I forwarded the Settlement Agreement and Release to the Plaintiff. She immediately signed the document and I returned it to you.

Your client has violated the terms of the agreement in at least three ways. First and foremost, the agreement is [REDACTED]. We did not agree to a check to Weisberg and Meyers and we certainly did not agree to a check payable to the Internal Revenue Service. Further, more than [REDACTED] days have elapsed since we returned the signed release. There is no justification for these breaches. On March 21, 2012, I provided a W9 and your client is welcome to issue a 1099 to my office for the full settlement, once the proceeds are paid.

Refusal to honor the April agreement will force us to file a request for the appropriate relief (including costs, sanctions and other remedies). Please correct this issue immediately.

Thank you.
